SMBs Fear Foreign Cyberthreats, Plan Cybersecurity Upgrades in 2020

9 in 10 Small-to-Medium-Sized Businesses (SMBs) believe foreign nation states are planning a ‘cyber invasion’ to breach our national security, and are using small businesses and organizations such as theirs as entry points.

To protect against foreign and domestic hackers, 62% of SMBs plan to increase cybersecurity budget in 2020.

Scored on a 100-point scale, SMBs in America currently perceive a very high level of cyberthreats and vulnerability.